Shame on the UN for allowing Iran's mass murderer president to speak at the UN Assembly!

It is a disgrace for the UN to give platform to Ebrahim Raisi, the Islamic Republic's president, who was directly responsible for the secret, summary execution of thousands of political prisoners in the summer of 1988.

Raisi is the head of a regime that murdered 22-year-old Mahsa (Jina) Amini in custody in September last year for not being properly veiled and which killed hundreds of protesters, including around 60 children, during the mass protests that came to be known as the Woman Life Freedom Revolution.

The people of Iran, with women at their forefront, are determined to get rid of this medieval, barbaric regime and are fighting for its overthrow on a daily basis. Whether the UN and the governments of the West decide to carry on with their business as usual with that regime in pursuit of their immediate interests will not deter the people of Iran in their fight for freedom.

At the same time, liaison with this barbaric regime will be politically costly for the UN and the governments of the West, who at any rate claim adherence to some basic civil rights and human rights standards. This disgraceful association with a fascist Islamic regime, which has the blood of tens of thousands people on its hands, is being noted by the public in the West and globally who, in contrast, have shown tremendous support for the people of Iran throughout their struggles - and continue to do so.

The Islamic Republic should be cast out of the world community. It should be globally isolated and boycotted, just as the apartheid regime in South Africa was in the 1980s. All diplomatic relations with that regime must be ended and its embassies shut down. The Islamic Republic must be kicked out of all international political, sporting and cultural organisations and fora for its horrendous crimes against humanity.

No platforms for mass murderers! Instead, people like Raisi, if they set foot outside Iran, should be issued with arrest warrants and prosecuted for their crimes in international courts.

Iran is boiling from within

The ABC documentary Inside Iran: The Fight Continues shows that deep changes are going on in Iran. In this documentary, you will learn about the revolutionary conditions in Iran from the language of brave youth: a society of 90 million that wants to be freed from medieval regime and Islamic laws.

It has been a year since the Iranian society has entered an important stage in its history. During this period, the balance of forces has changed in favour of the people, women have thrown away the hijab and stood boldly against the Islamic regime and its gender apartheid. People are fighting for their livelihood and freedom at different levels. The Woman, Life, Freedom revolution is going to overthrow the Islamic Republic.
